

Exclusions

We will not build your site on any "free" web space. "free" hosts will often (though not always) take over a portion of your site to advertise their own sites and services. This can vary from 1/4 of every page on your site, through to the 1/3 of each page plus taking over the greeting page of your site with a page of their own, with many links to their own content, and just one small inconspicuous link to your content. We do not build sites for people where we take a share of the revenue. This is because we are a Web Site design and build business, not speculators. We cannot guarantee that you will get tens of thousands of visitors every day. Visitors will visit if they hear good things about your site, and if it has content they are interested in

We do not undertake any work which involves children or animals in a sexual or violent context, nor will we promote any form of abuse on grounds of age, race, religion or gender. We will also inform the relevant authorities if we receive any queries about creating such site, or find that any sites we have created have been modified to include such material in the future.
